Key team rules:

1. The primary messaging system is Messenger for texts and Discord for calls.
2. Expected time for pull request reviews is 24 hours.
3. Maximum time for a pull request review is 48 hours.
4. Rules can be altered at any time during the project during a team meeting via voting.

Key principles governing work distribution:

1. The overall workload through the lifetime of the project will be distributed equally among all team members.
2. Tasks will be assigned according to each member's availability.
3. One team member can work on only one task at a time to avoid bottlenecks.

Capacity constraints (individual availability and team meeting constraints)

1. Team meetings and work that needs to be done as a group primarily will happen on weekends.
2. Individual work can happen anytime at the person’s choosing.

How the team will track progress:

1. We will track progress through GitHub by creating Issues.
2. The progress will be reviewed every week during team meetings

Sanctions and punishment within the team for breaking team agreements:

1. The standard punishment for a minor breach is 15 pull-ups, 40 push-ups, and 50 squats.
2. If the breach is major, the offender shall buy beer and “Kepta duona” with cheese for all team members.
3. The severity of the punishment is decided by the rest of the team.
